New Materials for Green Innovations – How a Materials Provider Views the Challenges of Environmental Issues

Dr. Tomoya Yamashiki
Director, Corporate Research &
Business Development,
Toray Industries (America), Inc.

Tomo is currently tasked with establishing a new framework for North American innovation for Toray Industries (the parent company in Japan), a major supplier of advanced materials and components). He actively works to establish strategic partnerships for Toray with emerging technologies in Clean/Green Tech, Advanced Materials, IT/Electronics, and Alternative Energies. Past activities include development of organic nonlinear optical devices, phase-change optical rewritable disks, and photo-sensitive ceramic materials for electronics applications. He is also co-founder and managing director of FLOX Co. (<http://www.flox.jp/>), a high-tech start up company with emerging C60's derivatives.
